

Career Development Section

Wayne Carlson is the manager of the Career Development Section. He previously was a Lieutenant with the Virginia Commonwealth University Police Department before coming to work at MCOLES in 1992. He supervises the staff who research and develop MCOLES' standards, training, and testing. Wayne also oversees the creation of in-service training resource materials for use by law enforcement agencies on a variety of law enforcement topics including firearms, officer safety, domestic violence, and sexual assault. Section staff will be more than happy to visit your agency to provide assistance. Wayne can be contacted at 517-322-5614 or carlsonw1@michigan.gov.

Danny Rosa is a training specialist in the Career Development Section and has worked for MCOLES since 1998. He previously worked as a Sergeant with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department (LASD) in California. Danny is responsible for maintaining the licensing exam, developing academy and in-service training, and developing training methods and facilitator guides to assist law enforcement trainers. Danny is an energetic resource for agency administrators, training personnel, and line officers. Contact Danny at 517-322-6449 or rosad@michigan.gov.

Joyce Nelson most recently worked as a Lieutenant at Lake Angelus Police Department and also as an instructor and assistant director at Oakland Police Academy. She is responsible for the basic training curriculum and ensuring the content accurately reflects current law enforcement practices. Joyce is also spearheading the development and implementation of an MCOLES Military Police Academy which will offer military police personnel the opportunity to seek licensure as an officer in the state of Michigan. She is also responsible for teaching methods and facilitating work groups, academic research, identifying best practices, validating training objects, and analyzing training content. Joyce can be contacted at 517-636-0699 or nelsonj20@michigan.gov.

Pat Hutting was the Sheriff of Eaton County prior to starting with MCOLES in 2001. He conducts medical investigations and reviews medical records when questions arise as to whether a potential recruit is able to meet MCOLES medical standards. He also coordinates applications for the Law Enforcement Officer's Safety Act (LEOSA) program and determines MCOLES approval through verification of law enforcement employment and departure in good standing, fingerprinting, and the administering of the MCOLES state firearms standard. Pat also coordinates the MCOLES in-service training registration, which is submitted through MITN, so law enforcement agencies are able to use their LED funds to pay for the courses. Contact Pat at 517-322-3967 or huttingp@michigan.gov.
